BETTER SYSTEM OF LAND TITLES

That Known as "Torrens" Recommended.

A Demand For Law of This Kind Legislative Commission States—Senator From Pitt Wanted to Reconsider Bill Regarding Quail Passed Friday—Number of Matters Considered by Legislature Yesterday.

Raleigh, Jan. 21.—The Senate and House today received the report of the legislative commission appointed at the last session to investigate the desirability of the adoption of the Torrens Land Title system for North Carolina and 2,500 copies of the report were ordered printed. The found a strong sentiment in the state for legislation that will make real estate titles more secure, condemning the present system in vogue in this state antiquated and insecure. The commission recites the fact that the Torrens system has the endorsement of the bankers and the building and loan associations and the Farmers' Union, besides civic organizations, and private individuals without number throughout the state. The reports recites that the accumulation of records is a serious question that will involve heavy expense in later years to make them accessible and numerous and obscure curative acts have to be passed from time to time to make good defects.

The Senate.

The senate met at 11 o'clock, President Pro Tem Pharr presiding and Rev. H. M. North, of Edenton Street Methodist church, offering prayer.

Several bills were received from the house, the most notable being one providing the apportionment of assessments against abutting property owners for paving, etc., in cities and towns and another making owners of dogs liable for damages in certain cases.

New Bills.

Boyden, of Rowan: Appropriate $25,000 for a suitable monument on the battlefield of Gettysburg to honor the memory of North Carolina troops.

Senator Cotton, of Pitt, asked that the bill preventing shipment of live quail out of the state be re-considered and was informed that it had already passed and been ratified, but that he could introduce a supplemental bill if he so desired. He thought the bill was rushed through without due consideration; that quail are now considered an asset for the farmer and that the bill does him an injustice. Senator Baggett declared that the bill is too drastic. No action was taken.

Senator Holbgood's bill increasing the salary of the adjutant general from $1,600 to $2,500 per year was reported favorably by the committee on salaries and fees and referred to the committee on appropriations.

Petitions were read from voters of Bessemer City and Mountain Island cotton mills asking for a ten hour law for cotton mills.

The report of the State Board of Internal Improvements relating to the state's interest in various enterprises was read and placed on the calendar until Monday, when Senator Brown will renew his motion to appoint a special committee of two on the part of the senate and three on the part of the house to investigate.

The House.

Speaker Dowd convened the House at 11 o'clock. President George W. Lay of St. Mary's School, offered the opening prayer.

A large number of bills were reported favorably from House committees. One to amend the divorce laws of the state so as to put husband and wife on the same footing as to Biblical cause for divorce came from the judiciary committee No. 1 with unfavorable report so that repeated offenses will have to be proven for divorce from husband.

The bill to increase the salary of the Supreme court reporter was re-referred to the committee on salaries and fees.

New Bills.

Williams, of Buncombe: Relating to the investment of capital of real estate title insurance. Allows investment of capital in title abstracts after $50,000 has been invested in accordance with section 4731.

Turlington of Iredell: Bill to make agents personally liable for insurance placed with unlicensed companies and requiring citizens insuring in unlicensed companies to pay the taxes on premiums.

THIS WEEK AT THE Y. W. C. A.

Several Events Will Occur During Next Six Days—A Rummage Sale Friday and Saturday.

A story hour will be conducted at the Young Women's Christian Association rooms this afternoon at 4 o'clock by Miss Emma Renn. All girls under sixteen are invited.

The Y. W. C. A. Glee Club, directed by Miss Gonzelles Byrne, will meet Monday night at 8. This club is free to association members.

A demonstration will be given Monday night by a physical culture class at the Normal College for the members of the city Y. W. C. A. The demonstration will begin at 8:45 and all women interested in gymnasium work may meet at the association rooms, 118 1-2 North Elm, at 8:15 or go directly to the Spencer building. It is important that all be prompt.

The emergency fund committee of the social study club will conduct a rummage sale Friday and Saturday, January 27 and 28, in the rooms on South Elm street formerly occupied by Patterson Bros. This department of the club is working to secure funds which may be used in such emergency cases as are frequently presented to the association, which cannot be met by the general funds, such as hospital attendance for sick members, or summer vacations for those who could not otherwise avail themselves of these privileges. Mrs. W. A. Hewitt is chairman of the emergency fund department of the club, and any who have articles of clothing, household furnishings, etc., which have ceased to be useful to them but might still be useful to some one else, may notify Mrs. Hewitt, and the articles will be called for.

NOTED CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR WORKER WILL COME HERE.

State Union Will Have Two Weeks Campaign Prior to Annual Convention.

At a meeting of the business board of the State Union of Christian Endeavor yesterday morning at the Clegg hotel it was decided to have a two weeks' campaign immediately preceding the State Convention, which will be held about the middle of March. It was decided to secure the services of Mr. Carl Lehmann, of Boston, field secretary of the United Society of Christian Endeavor, to tour the state in the interest of the work, the State Convention to mark the close of the campaign.

It is practically assured that Mr. Lehmann will come here, the only question being the exact date he can get off. As soon as this is known preparations will be made to advertise his coming in the various cities in which he will conduct campaigns. He will most probably be in Greensboro for a day and night and the Endeavorers of the city will begin to arouse interest in his coming as soon as the date is made known.

The board mapped out a tentative program for the sessions of the State Convention yesterday morning, but it will not be in readiness for publication for several days until the several speakers are heard from.

Electrical Appliance For Chopping Meats.

The Huffine Hotel yesterday installed an electric meat chopper in the hotel kitchin. The contrivance is a handy affair and the employees are delighted with it. A piece of meat can be placed in the machine and before one can tell it the meat is chopped more thoroughly than could be done in ten minutes by hand. Mr. Sanders, the proprietor, has for months been using an electric dishwasher, this also being a great labor saving machine as well as a time saver. He is now preparing to install an electric blower to carry off all steam and smoke that may originate in the kitchen of this up-to-date hotel.

Court in February.

During eighteen of the twenty-eight days of February court will be in session in Greensboro. On Feb. 6 a two weeks term of civil court will convene and on Feb. 20 a one week term of criminal court. Judge Daniels will preside.

Notice To Coupon Clippers.

A number of subscribers who have been clipping Telegram premium coupons have notified The Telegram what articles they desired to procure. The Telegram has these articles on hand now and requests all who sent in their orders to present their coupons with the requisite amount of money on receipt of which The Telegram will deliver the articles ordered. tf.

NATIONAL CIVIC DAY CELEBRATION

Much Interest Being Taken in Event.

Civic Department of Woman's Club Has Secured President of National Association For Stereopticon Lecture—March 10 the Day—Free Flower Seeds For the Junior Department—Playground Stamps.

The civic department of the Woman's club is looking forward with much interest to its celebration of National Civic Day, March 10. It is the purpose of the department to make the day an event in Greensboro, and it is not too early to begin to think about it and to talk about it.

To add to the interest and success of the day's exercises, Mr. J. Horace McFarland, president National Civic Association, has consented to give one of his delightful stereopticon entertainments, showing views of many of the prettiest spots in America, and explaining how other towns are handling just such problems as confront Greensboro today. Those who heard him on occasion of his former visit to the city several years ago, realize what a treat is in store for them, while those less fortunate will be better able to appreciate the importance and far-reaching influence of the civic movement after hearing a man so closely identified with it—knowing, perhaps, more about the subject than any one else in the United States.

Anticipating the work of the Junior Civic League during the summer months, arrangement are being made by the department to supply the children with free flower seed, the distribution being made before time for planting. It is not too early to begin preparing the beds, and the department wants to see every child in Greensboro do something this year towards beautifying the city.

The Greensboro Playground and Kindergarten Association—an outgrowth of the civic department, is making a good start in the matter of public playgrounds and park improvement. The playground stamp, as a means of raising revenue, is proving very popular and meets with general approval. With but little effort on the part of the committee over a hundred and fifty dollars worth have already been sold, with flattering prospects for the placing of the entire issue.

As a matter of local pride every one should see to it that private letters at least, carry this seal, remembering that every one used is a contribution to the playground fund, and at the same time, an advertisement for Greensboro, as an index to her progress and up-to-date ideas.

Attention is again called to the change of hour for the next general meeting of the Woman's Club, which will be held at 3 o'clock in the afternoon instead of at 10:30 in the morning. The change is made for the day only in order that all the members who complain that they cannot attend in the morning may have an opportunity to hear Mr. J. P. Cook, of Concord, who will talk to the ladies about the work of the Stonewall Jackson Training school for wayward boys an institution which is doing incalculable good for the future citizenship of the state, and of which comparatively little is known. It is hoped that every member of the club will feel enough interest in this grand work to attend the meeting, and all are asked to keep it in mind.

Lady Maccabees Instructed In New Ritualistic Work.

The Ladies of the Maccabees had a called meeting yesterday afternoon which was largely attended and at which Miss Elizabeth E. Brown, of Bradford, Pa., Past Supreme Commander, was present to instruct the ladies in new ritualistic work. There will be another meeting Tuesday afternoon to receive further instruction from Miss Brown and all the members are urged to attend.

COMMISSION GOVERNMENT

New Charter to be Voted on Feb. 7.

Only Two Weeks From Tuesday Until the Election—Advocates and Opponents Will Probably Be Busy During the Intervening Days—Believed That Act Will Be Ratified by Overwhelming Majority—Why Plan Is Popular.

On Tuesday, February 7, two weeks from next Tuesday, the registered voters of the city of Greensboro will either raitify or reject the law providing for a commission form of government for Greensboro. During the intervening days the advocates and the opponents of this plan will probably do some hard work.

However, there is but little doubt but that the majority in favor of the commission plan will be overwhelming. There is some opposition, of course, but so far this side is greatly in the minority. The idea is to get out as large a ovte favoring the bill as possible and to this end the advocates will seek to induce all who favor the plan to regist and vote. The registration books will be open at the city hall for ten days preceding the election. Only those who voted in the bond election last spring and who register between now and the election will be entitled to cast their ballot either for or against the measure.

One of the reasons why the commission plan is popular is because it tends to make the will of the people the law. In the preamble to the new charter the Chamber of Commerce committee, which drew the charter, says:

It has been frequently asked: "If the people really rule why do they not get what they want?" The answers to this question have been numerous and varied, but they are generally covered by the suggestion that the reason the people do not get what they desire is because their representatives in office do not take the trouble to learn what the people want, or feeling secure in their positions, for a time at least, take chances on the result of not doing what the people want done.

The main ideas of the Commission Form of Government are: First, to concentrate upon a few individuals definite responsibilities; and second, to place these individuals in a position where they can devote all of their time to the discharge of their public duties, and not be diverted by private business from learning what the people want and what their interests require and how to give it to them.

These are the main features which distinguish the Commission Form of Government from the antiquated form which now obtains in Greensboro and most cities, and which has proved unsatisfactory everywhere and at all times.

It is impossible for men, however good and capable they may be, to run the affairs of a city, when the greater part of their time and attention is taken up with their private affairs, and when they are spurred on to give their best thought to private business by the stern demands of necessity.

It is also impossible to always have good government when there is no way to remove or discharge inefficient public agents. It is also very desirable that the people should have machinery under their control for originating and executing plans which they believe will operate for their benefit.

It is likewise important that the people should have the machinery within their power to defeat plans with reference to their government which they believe will operate to their disadvantage.

No community can be as prosperous under a bad government as under a good government.

The argument of some that a few men have more sense and more capacity for government than all the people, is opposed to the fundamental principle of all republican forms of government.

Meeting of City Philathea Union.

The City Philathea Union will meet at the First Baptist church tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. The Philathea class of that church is arranging a very attractive program and it is hoped that all the classes of the city will be present in large numbers.

THE EUTERPE ENTERTAINED BY MRS. J. NORMAN WILLS

The Program For the Afternoon One of Unusual Interest.

The Euterpe Club with a number of friends was entertained yesterday afternoon by the president, Mrs. J. Norman Wills, at her home on West Gaston street. The principal feature of the program was an address by Mr. Hill, of the music department of the Normal College. Mr. Hill described the operas and other musical events that he had heard during the holidays in New York. His descriptions were intensely interesting, and were greatly enjoyed by all present.

During the afternoon Miss Woodall gave three violin selections. These were: Suite No. 3, Opera 34, by Franz Ries, Humoresk, by Dvorak, and a Serenade, by Pierne. Miss Woodall was accompanied by Mrs. Albright at the piano.

Miss Neff, of the Greensboro Female College, sang "Sunset" by Alexander Russell and "Where Blossoms Grow," by Gertrude Sans Souci. She was accompanied by Miss Albertson.

The entire program was charmingly rendered, and delighted the audience greatly. At its conclusion chocolate and wafers were served by the hostess, and the members of the club enjoyed a social hour with their friends.

THE INTERURBAN LINE.

Work on Traction Line At Charlotte to Begin Soon.

Charlotte News: Within 30 days' time work will begin on the interurban railroad which is to make Charlotte the centre of high traction speed development of the South.

This fact was assured by a meeting of citizens at the Selwyn hotel last night at which the sum of $220,600 of the $300,000, necessary for Charlotte to get the interurban line was subscribed. The rest is in sight and will be secured by a special committee today.

Beside subscribing the amount stated above, enough shippers signed the freight contract to insure the city's cooperation as desired in that line.

With the money subscription of $220,600 (or more) and the agreement of shippers to give the company one-half of their business, Charlotte met the requirements of the Southern Power Company, and thereby insures to Charlotte, not only the Interurban line, but other great projects along the line of electrical development, and steps probably to the front as the centre of the great development planned by the greatest financiers in the world—Messrs. B. N. and J. B. Duke—for the Piedmont section of the South, of which Charlotte is the centre.

Possibly there has never been held in Charlotte just such a meeting as that of last night. Hundreds of the best, and most representative of Charlotte's business men and citizens, in general filled the assembly room at the Selwyn hotel to say whether or not this city would accept the propositions of the Southern Power Company, through its representatives, Messrs. B. N. and J. B. Duke, W. S. Lee and Z. V. Taylor. The class of men present was a guarantee before the meeting opened, of the acceptance, by Charlotte, of the golden opportunity which stood at the city's door. The personnel of the meeting was notable; the result epochal.

WAS BLOCKING HOUSTON STREET

Citizens on Thoroughfare Objected.

When Central Carolina Construction Began Erecting Building That Would Block Traffic Residents on Street Appealed to City to Stop the Work and Prevent Their Being "Bottled Up."

A called meeting of the Board of Aldermen was held last night for the purpose of taking action regarding the closing of what is generally known as Houston street, formerly a continuation of Spring Garden street, the meeting being called at the request of the Street Commission.

Houston street runs parallel with the railway from South Spring to Fulton streets, being two blocks in length. It has never been deeded to the city, though the major portion was deeded to the public by owners when the lots were laid off. A large number of houses have been erected, the people believing that the street was public property clear through to Spring street. However, it seems that about a hundred feet fronting Spring street was never deeded to the public, although it has been used regularly, and recently the Central Carolina Construction Company, which owns the entire block facing Spring street, including the land used as a street, began the erection o fa building which would partially block the supposed street.

The residents immediately began to investigate and it was found that the property on which the building was going up did not belong to the public and no street had ever been officially opened across it. So they asked the aldermen to condemn the portion of the property used as a street as it would greatly inconvenience them if the street is closed.

The company, it is stated, did not think the property would ever be accepted by the city as a street, in that it had never been so before and they would put the land to some use. Both sides will investigate and the matter will be settled within the next ten days. It is not believed the city will be forced to condemn the property.

THE P. F. CLUB

The Full Membership of Twelve Paupers Present At the Last Meeting.

(Communicated.)

The P. F. club met in a simple little home on Schenck street—123—Friday afternoon. The full membership of twelve paupers being present the game of forty-two was called. After which the hostess served inelegant refreshments on time-worn newspapers, consiting of stale ginger snaps, cold Irish potatoes, well watered coffee, no cream or sugar; bonbons, peppermints and raw peanuts. The subjects discussed by the club were the new street lights, commission form of government, the free offers of trips and household premiums by our newspapers, the shortage of Greensboro's population but recently revealed with a hope that Carnegie's last gift to Mt. Wilson observatory would give us so much celestial information as to raise our people above the sordid things of every day life, and the result of the last cold weather upon the energies of our Chamber of Commerce.

No prizes being given a spirit of great restfulness pervaded the meeting, and owing to the high price of food products the club decided not to meet oftener than once per week, adjourning to meet Jan. 27, at 422 North Elm street.

M. P. College Committee.

On next Friday a meeting of the committee appointed by the Methodist Protestant Conference last November to consider the advisability of establishing a denominational college will be held in this city. The committee was to have met Friday, but there was no quorum present and the meeting was adjourned until next Friday.

WOMEN'S WORK FOR SOUTHERN SCHOOLS

Educator Claims Solution of Negro Problem May Come Through Woman's Co-operation.

New York Herald.

Declaring that in spite of great difficulties, the South is making rapid progress in the education of its children, Mrs. B. B. Mumford, of Richmond, Va., spoke yesterday afternoon at the Waldorf-Astoria on "Woman's Part in the Educational Progress of the South" under the auspices of the Woman's Welfare Department of the National Civic Federation.

Mrs. Mumford said that Southern women, working with the public school authorities, had obtained in most of the Southern States the repeal of constitutional provisions which prohibited the use of local taxes for school purposes and had aroused general sentiment for the extension of the public school system. As a result the percentage of illiteracy has decreased greatly.

Mrs. Mumford gave notable instances of the work of women in educating the negroes. The Southern woman, she said, is peculiarly fitted to assist in the education of the negro and, now that she has set her hand to the task, may have a large part in bringing the negro problem to a satisfactory solution.

This great change in condition I owe to Foley's Kidney Pills and recommend them to anyone suffering as I have." Howard Gardner.

She said she was married three months ago to David A. Christian, of No. 48 Rahway avenue, Elizabeth, N. J., by the Rev. J. V. Ellson. They wanted to keep the wedding secret until they could furnish a home.

His Brother Was Different.

A noted Philadelphia attorney tells one on himself. He left his native town in Tennessee years ago and located in Philadelphia to practice law. He has been uniformly successful. His brother, on the other hand, remained behind at the family homestead. Returning to his native town some time ago, the attorney met an old darky in the road.

"Hello, uncle!" he said. But the old man did not recognize the boy he used to know in the prosperous looking citizen who addressed him.

"Well," asked the lawyer, "how are the Blank family?"

"Oh, they're all right," said the old darky. "Jim Blank has gone to Philadelphia and done made a lot of money. He's a lawyer, sah."

"Is that so?" answered the attorney. "And his brother Tom, how is he? Has he made a fortune too?"

"Lawdy, no!" answered the old darky, shaking his head. "He ain't no lawyer. Marse Tom wouldn't take a dishonest penny from nobody."—Philadelphia Times.

A Russian Railroad.

Nicholas I. of Russia had quite an original way of transacting business. He sent one day for his engineers and gave them eight days to bring him the route of a railroad to connect St. Petersburg with Moscow. At the end of the allotted time the plan was prepared.

"What," said he, looking at it, "what is all this—these twists and turns, this serpentine track? You must have misunderstood me."

"Sire," said the spokesman, "we have drafted the shortest route which would embrace on the line the leading towns and villages."

"Give me the pencil and rule," he said, and he struck a bee line from one city to another. "Here—you understand me?"

"But, sire, you leave the large towns entirely out of sight!"

"That is their affair. Let them come within sight."

And so the road was made as straight as an I.

The Kauri Gum Diggings.

Kauri gum, found underground in New Zealand and dug to the amount of a million and a half yearly, is used chiefly for furniture polishes and varnishes, and most of it is exported to America. The industry of digging it is unlike any other in the world. A kauri forest is a beautiful sight, but kauri gum country is treeless, barren and desolate, even and swampy very often, with singularly heavy, cloggy soil, out of which the gum formed on kauri pines of ancient and long vanished forests is dug or speared. There are whole stretches of this treeless kauri country with nothing but a little scrub and fern growing on it. Some of the gum diggers—about 3,000 in all—are Maoris, pleasant, friendly natives; some are British, and a certain number are Dalmations.—Argonaut.

Thoughtful Girl.

The young man was calling on the girl. He didn't know her very well, but she looked good to him. He wanted to call again the next night, but hardly had the nerve to ask permission to do so.

"I'd like to come up again," he said when he was ready to go home. "How about next week some time?"

A look of disappointment came over her face. "Next week?" she said. "Why, isn't that—er—well, I'll tell you what to do; you come up tomorrow night and we'll decide which night next week you may call."—Detroit Times.

The Soul of the House.

There are big houses and small, handsome and plain, dear and cheap, but every house is like a suit of clothes in that it makes such a lot of difference who is walking around in it.—Life.

True enough. If she's there, it seems like home; if she isn't, it doesn't. No amount of elegance of edifice or furnishings can compensate for her absence. She is the indispensable factor to any home life worthy of the name.—Troy Press.

Look About You.

It is wonderful how much one can learn by cultivating the habit of observation. As you walk in the street or ride in the car you pick up a surprising amount of information. Our fellow beings are intensely interesting, and they are constantly teaching us something or other. Do not let your knowledge stagnate. Put it to some practical use.

No One to Do It.

"You say you have three small children. Can't you find work?"

The man with the three days' beard and the ragged trousers wiped away a tear.

"Alas, mum," he said, "it wouldn't be any good. They ain't old enough to work yet."

Raving.

"John, the cook has been drinking again."

"Is she very drunk?"

"Oh, very. She says she'll never leave us."—Washington Star.

In the Toils.

"I understand your cousin married a struggling young man."

"Yes, he struggled all right, but he couldn't get away from her."—Pittsburg Press.

Her Joke.

"Madam, your account is overdrawn, and we have had to send a number of your checks back."

"How perfectly funny!"—New York Press.

THE MOON THEORY.

It is reported that the scientists of the Agricultural Department have no faith in the moon theory. But they will never succeed in convincing the great majority of the farmers. One of these scientific gentlemen went to a certain farmers' rally in this State, to make an address. Near the close of his speech, he was asked if he believed the moon had any influence on crops. He smiled in a rather knowing and superior way and remarked that there was nothing to it. Whereupon, an old farmer in the back of the hall rose with his hat in hi hand, and remarked, as he started, "At the next meeting, I trust the committee will send us a moon man."

These old fellows know, and an ounce of experience is worth a pound of theory.

THE TEMPERANCE FIGHT IN ALABAMA.

Pending the discussion of the liquor question in the Alabama legislature, all lobbyists and reporters have been forbidden on the floor of the House. The fight promises to be a warm one. It is said that the Senate has a majority for local option and that the House is for "State-wide".

Senator Frank S. Moody, known as the "father of temperance in Alabama," has never been in favor of drastic prohibition measures, seeming to favor reaching absolute prohibition by "safe and sane" steps. He now has a plan to establish a dispensary in every county in the state, and this would perhaps be a path by which absolute prohibition could be reached in the shortest time; for the people would soon become so much disgusted with these institutions as to want to be rid of the whole business. But it seems likely now that the local option sentiment will prevail in Alabama, at least for a while.

SPEAKER CLARK

Hon. Champ Clark, of Missouri, Democratic leader of the House of Representatives, has been chosen Speaker of the next House. He is a man of powerful influence in his party, a citizen of clean life and moral integrity and unwavering fidelity to trust and duty.

But a Speaker of the House of Representatives may not expect always to have smooth sailing. It is a position in which one is compelled at times to exercise an inexhaustible amount of patience, while at the same time standing firmly by his own convictions. He cannot afford to become a compromiser, and for unpopular decisions and singular exercise of his powers he is at any time liable to precipitate an avalanche of criticism and abuse. So that the successful Speaker must be a man of cool judgment, wisdom, and justice, as well as a mere parliamentarian.

Most of the criticism which has heretofore been directed at the speaker has grown out of his selection of committees and his control over them: Speaker Clark will fortunately not be subjected to abuse on this account, because of a ruling to place the power of appointing committees in the control of the committee on ways and means, by the decisive majority of 166 to 7. So that with the removal of this menace to the new Speaker's popularity, and with his excellent personal attributes, long experience, and his ability as a statesman, Mr. Clark will no doubt prove one of the most efficient Speakers to be recalled in the history of the House.

RECIPROCITY AND BUSINESS.

Senator Gallinger, who has been endeavoring to show the United States Senate how very helpful it would be to the country to pass the ship subsidy bill, says that the reason we get such a small proportion of South America's trade is that we lack shipping facilities. But the truth is, hundreds of steamers leave our ports every year for South America, many of which return either empty or with small cargoes. The National Association of Manufacturers says that the facilities are ample, and that freight rates are not too high. The Department of Commerce and Labor, after making a thorough investigation of the number and tonnage of ships sailing for South American ports, reaches a decision comporting with that of the Manufacturers' Association.

It is true, however, that the United States is not getting its share of the South American business. But the reasons are to be sought outside of the ports and the offices of common carriers.

We have been standing aloof from our Latin-American neighbors with a false sense of superiority and a supercilious belief that they were unworthy of any motive higher than that of engaging in petty wars and internal dissensions. Consequently, while we look upon them with a feeling of disdain, they view us with suspicion and proceed to buy their goods from European markets and borrow their capital from European bankers.

There are few of our people who really know what wonderful progress, financially and industrially, is being made in the many progressive countries among the 20 republics of South America; and if you were to tell the average business man that Brazil alone is as large as the United States and that the combined area of all the republics is three times that of our country, he would perhaps gasp and say that there certainly must be some mistake about it. They have a population of 70,000,000 people, and buy goods from abroad to the value of the enormous sum of one billion dollars a year. America sells them less than 18 per cent. of their purchases.

If the manufacturers and other large industries of our country would get acquainted with their South American neighbors and proceed to form relationships of trust, reciprocal friendship, and mutual sympathy, they could not only turn those South American merchant vessels toward the United States that are now going to Europe for their cargoes, but would serve to open a way for mutual helpfulness, morally, religiously, and educationally, as well as industriously, and thus open a way for an ultimate alliance, based on friendship and good-will, of the entire hemisphere, and such an international prosperity as would become the envy of the world.

A Card of Thanks.

We wish to express our gratitude to our family physician for his very valuable service, and our kind neighbors for their help during the illness of our child, who had a severe attack of pneumonia.

We want all to join us in thanking the Great Almighty, whose power is infinite, that the little one is on the road to recovery. We hope he will soon be entirely well. Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Burgess.

Special Meeting of Socialists.

A special meeting of Socialists will be held Sunday afternoon at three o'clock sharp in W. H. Dorsett's shop. All Socialists are urgently requested to be present promptly. David H. Clark, local secretary.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all the other diseases put together, and until the last few years was ssupposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucuous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

How to Open a Can of Corn.

One of the smallest of the little girls in a West Philadelphia family had often assisted her mother in preparing the meals. She observed that her mother, who was rather hasty, always talked to herself when she had any difficulty in opening cans of vegetables. The little girl thought that the hastiness was a part of the operation.

"One day she was visiting a neighbor and went into the kitchen to help prepare a meal.

She watched the neighbor take a can of corn, apply the opener and remove the top.

"That's not the way to open a can of corn," said the little girl.

"Why, what other way is there?" asked the neighbor.

"Well, you take the can of corn and start to open it, and then you bear down and the opener slips. Then you say 'Darn this can!' and finish it. That's the way my mother opens a can of corn."—Philadelphia Times.

Diamonds to Lampblack.

You may purchase equal quantities of carbon for 5 cents or a million dollars. A bargain hunter might invest a nickel and get a package of pure lampblack. The million would secure a blazing diamond, easily turned into lampblack; not so easily—intense heat would be required. However, coal and wood are really more valuable than diamonds. They surrender life giving heat, while the only use so far discovered for diamonds is to cut glass, and for this carborundum is a good substitute. All diamonds in existence could be annihilated without loss to mankind; but, then, to vaporize diamonds would be costly, as the enormous heat of 12,632 degrees F. in the concentration of an electric furnace would be required, and then you might get enough graphite to make a lead pencil or a little fine stove polish. —Edgar Lucien Larkin in Nautilus.

Mystery of the Egg.

An egg for one thing is a succession of bags, bagged up in one another, a series of envelopes enveloped in one another, bags and envelopes without joints, seams or openings. Puzzles, ships built up and full rigged in bottles, flies in amber, are simply simplicity itself as puzzles when it comes to how these bags wrap one another up, bag in bag. In a hen's egg there are eight or nine or ten of the sacks in sacks ensacked. Everybody thinks he knows what an egg is, and after weary reading and study in many languages he only begins to learn that nobody knows a tiny fraction of all the world of secrets and mysteries hidden in an egg. "As full of meat as an egg" is not the true comparison, but "as full of mystery as an egg" is nearer the truth. Eggs are the greatest puzzle in all nations.—New York Press.

Poor Pay, Poor Preach.

Once upon a time there was an Indian named Big Smoke. A white man, encountering Big Smoke, asked him what he did for a living.

"Umph!" said Big Smoke. "Me preach."

"That so? What do you get for preaching?"

"Me git ten dollar a year."

"Well," said the white man, "that's d——d poor pay."

"Umph!" said Big Smoke. "Me d——d poor preach!"

"Eating Crow."

The term "eating crow" comes from an ante-Revolutionary story. A soldier of an English regiment stationed in Virginia shot a pet crow belonging to a farmer. The latter entered a complaint with the colonel, who sentenced the soldier to eat the crow. The farmer was left alone with the soldier to see that he did it. After the soldier had consumed a portion of the bird he took his gun, presented it at the farmer and told him to eat the remainder of the crow or he would shoot him. This was the origin of the eating crow story.

Mr. A. G. Coffin says that when he went home Saturday night that he thought, and all his people thought, that he had pneumonia. He rubbed a box of Mother's Joy on his chest, as directed, and went to sleep, and he says the next morning he was entirely well. And he fully believes it broke up a case of pneumonia. All who doubt this will ask Mr. Coffin. For sale by Conyers & Sykes.

MISS LETHBRIDGE DELIGHTS AUDIENCE

Noted Muiscian Heard by Large and Appreciative Audience At Normal College Last Night—Equally at Home With All Composers.

Miss Lethbridge is not a woman who resorts to any expedients in the way of elaborate costuming or stage mannerisms, in order to enhance her popularity, but wins her applause entirely on the merit of her work as a performer and musician. And she is in no sense or particular, disappointing. Her repertoire comprises the works of those composers for the piano who have won world-renown, and which the musicians in all ages will continue to study and marvel at because of their profundity and depth of feeling, their remarkable breadth of intellectual expression, and their exclusive and characteristic qualities of genius.

The technical attainments and breadth of temperament possessed by Miss Lethbridge is remarkable. Whether it be the beautiful and entrancing melody in Schumann's Romance in F. Sharp Major or the fiery and difficult passages in Liszt's Tarantelle, she is in the mood and has the faculty of interpretation and the temperamental attributes so well balanced as to call forth an expression of both wonder and admiration.

Her rendition o fthe Etude, by Chopin, was an especially enjoyable number, on account of its strength and the beautiful arpeggio movements accompanying the deep and sustained notes in the melody; and the Valse in G Flat Major, of Chopin which had to be played a second time. The Polanaise in E Minor, of Chopin, and the Consolation in D Flat Major, of Liszt, were particularly fine, and the concensus of opinion of the leading musicians present was that Miss Lethbridge is not only worthy of all the kind words spoken of her preceding her visit to Greensboro, but that she gave as much pleasure to her auditors last evening as any musician who has visited the city during the season.

TO FIX DATE FOR THE TEACHERS' ASSEMBLY

Executive Committee Will Meet in Raleigh Next Thursday.

The regular annual meeting of the executive committee of the North Carolina Teachers' Assembly has been called for Thursday, January 26, at Raleigh. The committee will meet at 3:30 o'clock in the Raleigh High School building. The most important matter to be settled at this meeting is the selection of the time and place for holding the next session of the assembly. The members of the executive committee are:

Supt. Chas. L. Coon, Wilson; Prof. E. C. Brooks, of Trinity College; Mr. R. D. W. Connor, of Raleigh; President R. L. Moore, of Mars Hill College; Mr. A. E. Woltz, of the University of North Carolina; Supt. H. P. Smith, of Greenville; Supt. F. P. Hall, of Gaston county; Miss Edith Royster, assistant superintendent schools of Wake county; Miss Mary O. Graham, of the State Normal College, Greensboro.

It is understood that the committee will receive invitations from several places in the state for the next session of the assembly.

AN EVENING OF PLEASURE.

The Appearance of Next Lyceum Attraction Awaited With Much Interest.

Greensboro music lovers are awaiting with much interest the next attraction of the Greensboro Lyceum Course, which will be given Tuesday evening in the annex of West Market Street Methodist church. At this time Rounds Ladies' Orchestra will give their entertainment and from the press notices this attraction promises to eclipse the former entertainments of the course. The following from the Detroit Free Press will be of interest:

Herbert O. Rounds, the presiding genius over Rounds Ladies' Orchestra and Specialty Co., has steered his company over all shoals and through all breakers for the past 16 years without a shipwreck or accident; he is the result of twenty-five years' training and experience, brought up in a musical family, he was taught music from his infancy; in his youth he played in the best bands and orchestras in the country; at nineteen, cornet solist with a noted concert company; he helped organize and establish Rounds Academy of Music and taught in it with his brother; managed and taught some of the leading bands of the country; for ten years choirmaster in many of the prominent churches and for 16 years was with the First Baptist church at Detroit.

He has a heart full of sunshine and a beautiful baritone voice which might be called almost a tenor; his songs and stories are the delectable bits with which he rounds off his programs already crowded full of delightful surprises.

EDWARDS NOT THE MAN.

Proves He Was in Fuqua Springs the Day Little Girl Was Assaulted—Number of Witnesses Testify.

Mr. C. M. Edwards, who was arrested Thursday on the charge of assaulting the six-year old daughter of Mr. C. E. McLean two weeks ago today, was given a hearing before Justice Collins yesterday morning, evidence being introduced to prove that the defendant was in Fuqua Springs on the day the crime was committed. Accordingly the prosecution, after hearing the evidence, did not insist that the defendant be held.

Mr. Edwards had a number of witnesses here from Fuqua Springs and showed that he arrived in that place at 2:30 in the afternoon of the day the little girl was assaulted at 4 o'clock. He went on the stand and made the same statement he made to a Telegram reporter Thursday night. Mr. McLean was put on the stand and he stated that he believed the defendant was the right man, that he looked just like the man and his voice strongly resembled that of the man he had seen with his child. However, after hearing the testimony of the defense he admitted that it was a case of mistaken identity and assured the defendant that he bore no ill will towards him, expressing his regret at the occurrence. After the trial Mr. McLean and Mr. Edwards shook hands.

Verdict For Plaintiff.

In Guilford Superior Court yesterday the entire day was taken up in the case of Robert Tonkins vs. North Carolina Railroad Company. The suit was to recover damages in the sum of $5,000 because of injuries received by the plaintiff while in the employ of the company. The jury last night returned a verdict giving the plaintiff $880. The defendant fell while taking a signal lamp off a post at Hill Top and claimed that he was injured because of the negligence of the defendant.

CAPTAIN BOYNTON, FILIBUSTER, DEAD

New York Herald.

Captain George B. Boynton, for fifty years a soldier of fortune and a promoter of revolutions in many quarters of the globe, died early yesterday morning of a complication of ailments in the Rebeau Private Hospital, No. 156 West Seventy-fourth street. Captain Boynton was sixty-nine years old and for the last two years had been living at No. 501 West 124th street.

Captain Boynton was the type of filibuster that is read so much about but so rarely met in life. He was a tall, bronzed, broad shouldered man, and next to "Dynamite Johnny" O'Brien was the most picturesque and daring of the many soldiers of fortunes who sought adventures the last quarter of a century in South American countries.

He was born in New York, in Fifth avenue. His father was a noted surgeon. Boynton was not the adventurer's real name, and to this day no one not even his biographer, Horace Smith, knows what it was. He loathed publicity, and seldom talked his adventures.

His father obtained an appointment at Annapolis for him, but in the civil war he enlisted, against his father's wishes, in an Illinois cavalry regiment. He was in the battles of Pittsburg Landing and Shiloh and fought with General Grant down the Mississippi. His sympathies were with the South, though, and he soon left the army, returning to New York.

In the battle of Pittsburg Landing he received a wound on the right cheek and he carried the scar of his injury the rest of his life.

In New York he became interested in blockade running, and from that time on up to two years ago he was engaged in hundreds of thrilling adventures. At one time he bought a distillery in Brooklyn. "Jim" Fisk later bought an interest in the distillery, paying $150,000 for his share. The two had a plan to patent a system of diluting whiskey, but it fell through.

Several years later the Captain bought the Ed. Stuart, a steamboat, equipped it with six mountain guns and other armament and set sail for Cuba. He sold his supplies to revolutionists there for money and cigars. He placed the cigars in water tight casks and dumped them in New York Harbor, getting them the next day, and thus avoiding duty.

In England then he learned of the sale of 3,500 old rifles of the Austrian government. He bought these and turned them over to the French before the battle of Sedan. He got an order after this from Don Carlos, the Spanish pretender, and aided him with supplies. He was nearly killed by mountaineers commissioned to kill him.

He undertook to supply munitions of war to Russia in the trouble between that country, Servia, Montenegro and Turkey. He witnessed the siege of Plevna. Later he aided in supplying ammunition to various South and Central American countries. At one time he was chief of the Secret Service of Venezuela. In 1897 he was arrested in this city by Secret Service men charged with counterfeiting a foreign government's money. With $10,000 worth of silver bullion, it was charged, he was planning to make $20,000 in Venezuela tender. He was later released. Captain Boynton left a widow.

Solves a Deep Mystery.

"I want to thank you from the bottom of my heart," wrote C. B. Rader, of Lewisburg, W. Va., "for the wonderful double benefit I got from Electric Bitters, in curing me of both a severe case of stomach trouble and of rheumatism, from which I had been an almost helpless sufferer for ten years. It suited my case as though made just for me." For dyspepsia, indigestion, jaundice and to rid the system of kidney poisons that cause rheumatism, Electric Bitters has no equal. Try them. Every bottle is guaranteed to satisfy. Only 50c. at Fariss-Klutz Drug Co.

Dauntless.

"He cleared the sill at a bound and vanished in the darkness!" related Romance, breathlessly.

"But," scoffed Realism, "only a moment ago he was riveted to the spot. Did he file the rivets?"

"Oh, no!" rejoined Romance, nothing daunted. "Fortunately it was only a small spot, so that by a superhuman effort he wrenched it loose and carried it along with him."—Puck.

Metropolitan Myths—Occupations for Women.

New York Herald.

So much has been printed regarding the various occupations by which women amass a competence that the highways leading into this city are crowded with those who believe that fortune awaits them here. They are met by an outgoing throng, also hopeful and inexperienced, who intend to raise squabs or chickens or make fancy butter from cows that wear white overalls to the milking.

Both the ingoing and outgoing are the victims of the illusive and comprehensive myth of feminine occupations. It is quite true that woman's sphere in the industrial world has widened enormously during the last quarter of a century, and that thousands now support themselves in the fields that were closed to their sex a few years ago. But work is no easier now than then, and no "advancement" that women can ever attain will make it possible to raise squabs or feed chickens while lying on the sofa reading novels.

As to urban occupations they are many and varied, but not quite so easy as they look. It is not possible for a farmer's daughter to amass a fortune by teaching auction bridge to the leaders of society, and she can make still less by playing with them. Nor is there much demand among the wealthy for information as to the decoration, furnishing and arrangement of their apartments. There is absolutely no demand for embroidered slippers or neckties.

Nevertheless it is gratifying to note that to the many professions now open to women has recently been added the noble one of nurse-detective.

Saves Two Lives.

"Neither my sister nor myself might be living today, if it had not been for Dr. King's New Discovery," writes A. D. McDonald, of Fayetteville, N. C., R. F. D. No 8, "for we both had frightful coughs that no other remedy could help. We were told my sister had consumption. She was very weak and had night sweats but your wonderful medicine completely cured us both. It's the best I ever used or heard of." For sore lungs, coughs, colds, hemorrhage, lagrippe, asthma, hay fever, croup, whooping cough,—all bronchial troubles,—its supreme. Trial bottle free. 50c. and $1.00. Guaranteed by Fariss-Klutz Drug Co.

WANTS WIFE WHO DOESN'T GAD

Indiana Man Says He Is Tired of the One Who Refuses to "Stand Without Hitching."

Muncie, Ind., Jan. 20.—Disgusted because his pretty young wife, Mabel, has deserted him and their child for the third time, Daniel Bates, twenty-three years old, of Hartford City, has sent a communication to a Muncie newspaper saying that all efforts to find his wife having failed he is "again in the market for another wife." Bates makes these requirements:—

"This time I want a wife who will stand without hitching and won't kick over the traces every month or so. Mabel has spurned my love three times. Three times she has packed her trunk and sallied forth in quest of adventure. Therefore, if some kind and companionable young woman who does not want to gad around all the time wants a husband, just tell her that Dan Bates is available, and, like Barkis, 'is willin'."

A Picture of Night.

Along the high hedged lane John Strong swung, the June gloaming deepening into night. He loved to shove his face into the night. He gloried in the uncertainty of night, the indefiniteness of night, and his soul cried back a wild answer to the cry of the nighthawk and the owl. Night is more primitive than day; night is more calamitous; night is a savage; night everywhere is the true aborigine. Day has taken on civilization. Night hurls the world back to the day of the war club, the flint arrowhead, the painted visage. John Strong loved the night with an almost malevolent love. In the night he could hear the Valkyries screaming, the witches riding their broomsticks, the ghouls scraping the mold from off the new buried coffin. John Strong swung along, his face set to meet oncoming night.—Adventure.

"SENATOR" ROOSEVELT

Here Is the Man Who Is Figuring At Albany In Fight Against Sheehan.

Albany Correspondence New York American.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, the young Senator from Dutchess, who has taken up the cudgel against Charles F. Murphy and tied up the Tammany machine in the election of United States Senator, is 28 years old. He is a fifth cousin of Theodore Roosevelt. He was born in Hyde Park, Dutchess county, and his early education was at Groton, Mass. He was graduated from Harvard in 1904 and from the New York Law School in 1907.

At the time of his election he was managing attorney for the law firm of Carter, Ledyard & Milner, of New York.

While at Harvard he managed the football team. He is a son of the late James Roosevelt and brother of James Roosevelt Roosevelt, who was Secretary to the American Legation at Vienna and Secretary to the American Embassy in Great Britain during Cleveland's first and second terms, respectively.

He married in 1905 the daughter of the late Elliott Roosevelt, who was a brother of Colonel Roosevelt. She is her husband's fifth cousin. They have three children. The young Senator was never in politics until last fall, when he was asked by the Dutchess county managers to take the nomination for State Senator. He defeated John F. Schlosser, of Fishkill.

Senator Roosevelt is nearly six feet tall. He is light complexioned and wears glasses. His face is boyish, but those who remember Theodore Roosevelt when he was an Assemblyman say the Senator bears a striking likeness to the Colonel.

Foley's Kidney Remedy-An Appreciation

L. McConnell, Catherine St., Elmira, N. Y., writes: "I wish to express my appreciation of the great good I derived from Foley's Kidney Remedy, which I used for a bad case of kidney trouble. Five bottles did the work most effectively and proved to me beyond doubt it is the most reliable kidney medicine I have ever taken." Howard Gardner.

A GOULD DINNER.

New York Times.

The large main hall of the Gould residence was simply decorated with palms, and the hall on the second floor, between the drawing room and the ballroom, was also sparingly decorated, as were also the drawing room and ballroom; cut flowers and palms being placed here and there, the house being too handsome to require floral decoration.

After doffing their wraps in the dressing rooms on each side of the entrance the guests ascended the stairs and were received by Mrs. Gould and Miss Gould, the latter in a simple white frock, near the head of the stairs, and here, also, on a small platform especially arranged for musicians, Nahan Franko and his orchestra played.

Dinner was served at about 9 o'clock in the dining and Regency rooms on the first floor, there being about 140 present.

The dining-room with its pale green tinted walls and hangings, was decorated with mauve and yellow orchids, and ropes of green, with orchids intermingled, were suspended from the ceiling.

The guests were seated at two long tables, upon which were tall vases banked at their bases with orchids and filled with mauve orchids and long sprays of yellow orchids. Mr. Gould and Lord Decies were at the tables in this room.

A RELIABLE COUGH MEDICINE

Is a valuable friend. Foley's Honey and Tar fulfils this condition exactly. Mrs. Charles Kline, N. 8th St., Easton, Pa., states: "Several members of my family have been cured of bad coughs and colds by the use of Foley's Honey and Tar and I am never without a bottle in the house. It soothes and relieves the irritation in the throat and loosens up the cold. I have always found it a reliable cough cure." Howard Gardner.

"What's the bearded lady so mad about?" inquired the armless wonder.

"Somebody has sent her a catalogue of a safety razor factory," said the living skeleton.—Chicago Tribune.

Look For the Hose With This Mark on the Toes

There are many kinds of guaranteed hosiery but they are all imitations of the original "Holeproof."

When your husband goes out to buy sox, tell him to insist on "Holeproof"—tell him to look on the toes for our trademark.

This means more than you think—it means that if any holes appear within six months we give you new hosiery free.

But that is not all, the hosiery itself is more stylish and comfortable than any other on the market.

FAMOUS Holeproof Hosiery FOR MEN WOMEN AND CHILDREN

The makers use only the finest and softest cotton from Egypt and the Sea Islands. They pay 63 cents a pound, but could buy ordinary cotton at 12 cents a pound.

The yarn is three-ply in the body and doubled to six-ply in the heels, toes and knees. Common hosiery is made of two-ply yarn throughout yet it costs you as much as "Holeproof."

Comfort is supreme in "Holeproof"—the fabric is as soft and smooth as silk. Style is increased for the hosiery is shaped to fit the ankle like a glove fits the hand.

Men's hose come in eleven attractive colors and women's in six. Price $1.50 to $3 a box of six pairs. Children's hose, in black and tan, at $2 a box of six pairs. Please come in and see this hosiery today—it costs no more than the ordinary.

The Magpie Ceiling.

One of the apartments in the ancient royal palace at Cintra, Portugal, is known as the Hall of Magpies. Painted in the arabesque ceiling is to be found a swarm of magpies. Each has in the mouth a scroll, on which, painted in red on a white ground, are the words, "Por bem." The story runs that King John of Portugal was making love to one of the maids of honor in this chamber and was surprised by the queen. His majesty made the best of the circumstances and explained to the queen, "E por bem minka sacre" ("Oh, it is nothing at all. It is quite right. There is no harm in it"). As to whether the queen was satisfied the legend is silent, but the ladies of the court were deeply interested and were constantly saying to one another with a smile, "Por bem! Por bem!" The king thought it time to act, so he commissioned an artist to paint on the ceiling as many magpies as there were talkative ladies about the court, each holding in the beak the ribbon with the words, "Por bem."—London Globe.

Fate of Portugal's Homer.

"The Lusiad" is one of the noblest records ever written of national glory and success. Camoens, its gifted author, determined to do for Portugal what Homer had done for Greece. The great poem was written in the sixteenth century, which has been called the heroic age of Portugal, and its main feature is the rounding of the Cape of Good Hope by Vasco da Gama, while a most interesting episode is the crowning after death of Inez de Castro as queen of Portugal. "The Lusiad" took its name from Lusius, who was said to have founded Lisbon. Its author was born about 1520, and his career, which began brilliantly, was blighted by the death of a broken heart of the lady of his love, for whose sake he was banished from the land. He wrote "The Lusiad" in his banishment and was recalled in 1571, losing on the way all his property except his poem. Pensioned at first by the king, this great epic poet of Portugal died in great poverty in 1570, when his patron was also dead.

Down In a Coal Mine.

To the ear accustomed to the constant sound of a living world the stillness of a coal mine, where the miles of crosscuts and entries and the unyielding walls swallow up all sounds and echo is a silence that is complete, but as one becomes accustomed to the silence through long hours of solitary work sounds become audible that would escape an ear less trained. The trickling murmur of the gas, the spattering fall of a lump of coal loosened by some mysterious force from a cranny in the wall, the sudden knocking and breaking of a stratum far up in the rock above or the scurry of a rat off somewhere in the darkness strike on the ear loud and startling. The eye, too, becomes trained to penetrate the darkness, but the darkness is so complete that there is a limit—the limit of the rays cast by the pit lamp. —Joseph Husband in Atlantic.

Portuguese and Codfish.

It is an interesting fact that the fishermen of northern Portugal started and developed the fishing industry on the "banks" off the northern coast of America, and, though they now send fewer ships, their taste for salt cod from Newfoundland is unabated—in fact, it is a national Portuguese dainty. It is found in every little grocery shop, hard and brown as a board. A number of Portuguese have made their home on the islands to the south of the mainland of Massachusetts, and there the dark eyes of the Iberian maiden, raven locks and a certain picturesque element in dress are not infrequent. This connection with Portugal dates back many years, the ships of Marthas Vineyard bridging the distance over sea and returning with Portuguese crews.—Exchange.

By all odds the busiest store in the city yesterday was Isaacson's new stand, 308 South Elm street, where the great fire sale is going on. The people simply flocked there to take advantage of the unusual and extremely low fire sale prices. The sale continues tomorrow. Come in and take advantage of the great reductions. It estate amounted to about a Million Dollars. Of course he was intimate with many sound financial friends—but he went to a Trust Company and named it as his executor. Why? Because he thought he was going to die, why not his friends die, too, if he appointed them as trustees. He knew that a responsible Trust Company would never die, and that his estate would be properly and safely administered. Being a great lawyer the Chief Justice knew what might happen.
